HOPES TO MAKE TRIP IN LESS THAN 24 HOURS

Takes Off from Bolling Field, Washington, Shortly After Noon Today

TAKE-OFF IS PERFECT

Only Small Crowd at Airport as He Skims Off into Distance

Washington, Dec. 13—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who blazed the transatlantic trail to Paris last May, took off from Bolling Field here at 12:29 o'clock today on a non-stop flight to Mexico City.

He plans to make it in something less than 24 hours, the exact time being dependent upon how much the speed of his "Spirit of St. Louis" is retarded by headwinds.

The take-off was almost perfect, despite the soggy condition of the field and the heavy load of gasoline carried. Prior to the getaway, "Lindy" and some of the army aviators stationed at the field had gone over it thoroughly and stuck small flags in the spots that were particularly wet. "The Spirit of St. Louis" carefully avoided these as it skimmed down the field.

The sky was overcast and murky, but there was a promise of good weather ahead.

Given Air Escort

Lindbergh was given an escort of six army planes on the getaway. Five of these were piloted by army friends, and in the sixth was William P. McCracken, air secretary of the Department of Commerce.

With the army planes snorting on the ground below him, Lindy circled the field once while his escort was getting into the air and then turned the nose of "We" into the haze of the southwest. In a few minutes he was completely out of sight in the murky air.

Only a small crowd gathered at Bolling Field to see the start of the international flight. It was composed mostly of army aviators and newspaper folk.

Lindbergh observed unusual precautions in preparing for the getaway. He had the "Spirit of St. Louis" wheeled to the far end of the field shortly after 10 o'clock, and had the motor experts going over her with minute care. He continually squinted at the weather, and referred to special reports furnished him by the U. S. Weather Bureau. Finally, a little after 11 o'clock he seemed to think that conditions were right, but he waited for more than an hour after that before he gave the final word.

MAN WHO ATTEMPTED SUICIDE DIES HERE

Worley E. Bishop, 25, Crippled Clock Mender, Dies Two Weeks After Shooting

Congestion of the lungs was given as the immediate cause and a self-inflicted bullet wound the indirect cause of the death of Worley Ernest Bishop, 25, cripple, who conducted a jewelry shop at 124 N. Prospect-st.

The young man died at 11 o'clock this morning at his home, 304 Breen-st, after suffering from a bullet wound in his right lung for the last two weeks. Mr. Bishop, who had been a cripple practically all his life, had attempted suicide Nov. 28 with a 32 caliber revolver when he became despondent over his crippled condition.

Mr. Bishop was born in Carpenter, O., June 11, 1902, the son of Charles E. and Bessie L. Bishop, both natives of Meigs County. Surviving, besides the parents, with whom he resided, are three sisters, Mrs. Daniel Tatman of New Castle, Pa., Mrs. Bertha Arthur and Miss Edith Bishop, at home, a brother, Raymond M. Bishop, staff sergeant of the U. S. Air Department at Pope Field, N. C., and a nephew, Worley Raymond Arthur.

ARRANGES FOR FUNERAL, THREATENS TO SUICIDE

San Francisco, Dec. 13—Failure of police to find the body of Edward G. Montague, who claimed to be a New York attorney, today led officers to believe that Montague was suffering from a "suicide complex." After making arrangements for his own funeral, Montague, who was followed to the waterfront by Walter Watson, a friend, threatened to shoot Watson if he tried to keep him from jumping in the bay.

Montague has not been seen since Watson left to inform the police. Neither has a search of the bay produced any trace of him.

ACCEPT OHIO STADIUM

Columbus, Dec. 13—Trustees of Ohio State University today were in full possession of Ohio Stadium, the university's "football plant." At a meeting late yesterday, the trustees formally accepted the offer of the athletic board to turn the stadium over to them. By this action the stadium becomes the property of the State of Ohio.

LINDY CARRIES GUN

Takes No Chances of Trouble in Case He Is Forced Down

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — An army rifle nestled in the cockpit beside Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today when he pointed the nose of his transoceanic airplane Southwestward for the 2,000-mile flight to Mexico City.

Almost half of Lindbergh's flight will be over Mexican territory, and there is always the possibility of a forced landing in the desolate and bandit-infested stretches of northern Mexico.

His only other equipment was two army canteens of water, an emergency ration kit, and two life preservers, which he sat upon.

He carried no parachute.

IDENTIFIES MAN AS ROBBER OF GALION BANK

Teller Testifies Harry Zillick Participated in Theft of $175,000

(Special to The Star.)

Bucyrus, Dec. 13—Harry Zillick, Toledo, this morning sat in court and gazed at the accusing finger of Earl Clements, bank teller of Galion, who as the first witness in the trial which opened yesterday, positively identified him as the participant in the $175,000 holdup of the Galion Commercial Savings Bank, June 28, last.

Defense Counsel John Hackett of Toledo was unable to shake Clements conviction that Zillick was the guilty man in the cross examintion that closed the morning session.

Considerable haggling between attorneys occurred during the cross examination when the state contended that the defense was "riding" Clements.

It was expected that Clements would be recalled to the stand at the opening of the afternoon session.

Describing his experiences at the time of the holdup in direct examination, Clements said that he was occupying his usual position behind a bank window when he was confronted by Zillick, who ordered him into a small room in the bank at the point of a gun.

Would Bar Official

The only other bit of excitement furnished as the trial actually got under way this morning was when Defense Counsel Hackett asked the court to bar Vice President Gosborn of the Galion bank, who is scheduled to testify for the state but is attending the trial in the interests of a Galion paper, from the court sessions. His motion was overruled by Judge J. Walter Wright, who is presiding.

Zillick, members of the jury, who were seated at the close of yesterday's session, Sheriff Harvey Ulmer, several deputies, attorneys in the case and court officials this morning visited the scene of the holdup at Galion. The party returned to Bucyrus.

MARION C. OF C. TO NAME COMMITTEES

Appointment Scheduled at Regular Meeting of Directors Today

Appointment of committees to have charge of the various branches of activity of the Marion Chamber of Commerce during the coming year is expected to take place at the monthly meeting of the board of directors scheduled for this afternoon.

Discussion of preliminary plans for the year's program and casting of the local Chamber's vote on a national referendum relating to federal control of the Mississippi River flood situation were other matters planned for the meeting.

This session of the board is the first held since the annual election, which took place in November. Fifteen committees were to be appointed by the new president, H. B. Hane.

National Issue

The referendum on flood control provides for a vote by all Chambers of Commerce in the country on four proposals which would place the work of remedying conditions in the Mississippi River district in the hands of the federal government with the entire cost paid from the federal treasury.

The vote of the local chamber will be based on recommendation made by a committee consisting on H. J. Barnhart, F. B. Morrison and D. J. Shelton. These three men are officials of local industrial concerns whose sales territory includes the Mississippi River district. Mr. Barnhart being an official of the Osgood Co., Mr. Morrison the Power Manufacturing Co. and Mr. Shelton the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Former Chief Lengel Free On Bond of $25,000 After Serving Jail, "Pen" Time

Common Pleas Judge Diehl Declares Release Due Aged Man Under His Constitutional Rights; Appeal Will Be Heard on Dec. 20

Canton, Dec. 13—Former Police Chief Seranus A. Lengel, awaiting a new trial on charges of complicity in the plot which resulted in the murder of Don A. Mellett, Canton publisher, here more than a year ago, today was free on bond of $25,000.

In admitting Lengel to bail this morning, Common Pleas Judge Edwin W. Diehl stated that the court was not granting Lengel a special privilege, and that the dmission to bond was not at the discretion of the court, but simply granting to the aged former chief what was his by constitutional right.

Lengel has served seven months in the Stark County Jail and the State Penitentiary combined.

Originally sentenced to life imprisonment after being convicted of first degree murder in connection with the Mellett slaying, Lengel was granted a new trial by the Seventh District Court of Appeals. Motion for a change of venue is now pending before Judge Diehl.

The state supreme court is scheduled to hear an appeal of Stark County Prosecutor Henry Harter, Jr., on Dec. 20, asking for a reversal of the appellate court's order.

The five Canton men who signed Lengel's bond were Dr. J. R. Beiter, O. F. Lenhart, Fred C. Hannafelt, C. C. Upham and James L. Amerman.

COOLIDGE APPROVES PROGRAM FOR NAVY

Would Cost $1,000,000,000 and Calls for 26 New Cruisers

Washington, Dec. 13—A five-year naval building program, to cost approximately $1,000,000,000 and bring the American Navy up to somewhere near parity with the British, has been approved by President Coolidge and will be introduced in Congress this week.

It will be an administration bill, and is expected to pass after a spirited skirmish with the "little navy" bloc which always opposes expansion plans of the general board.

The program contemplates the construction of 26 cruisers of the 10,000-ton type, three airplane carriers similar to the Saratoga just launched, five or six large fleet submarines of the most advanced type, and a number of destroyer leaders.

The program will cost approximately $200,000,000 a year and when it is concluded the American Navy will be for the first time since the Washington armament conference on a basis of comparative equality with the British.

PROSECUTOR TAFT SUED FOR $500,000

Berger, Indicted for Perjury, Files Action; Remus Attacks State

Courthouse, Cincinnati, Dec. 13—John S. Berger, wealthy exposition promoter of Los Angeles, today filed suit for $500,000 against Prosecutor Charles P. Taft who was responsible for his indictment by the Hamilton County Grand Jury on a charge of perjury. Herger was a star witness last week for Remus, who is on trial for the murder of his wife, Imogene.

Shaking his fist in the faces of the prosecutors, George Remus rose in court at his trial for murder today and, pleading in behalf of two indicted defense witnesses, urged the court to see to it that the jury is given the full facts on "how the state is besmirching the ends of justice by using the grand jury as a weapon against a man on trial for his life."

On each side of Remus stood the indicted men, John S. Berger, wealthy exposition promoter of Los Angeles, and Vernon R. Chumbley, Remus' jail secretary.

They were being arraigned. The jury was absent.

LEGISLATORS MEET, IMPEACH GOV. JOHNSTON

Oklahomans Gather in Downtown Hotel When Barred from Capitol

SIX CHARGES VOTED

Chief Justice and Agricultural Board Head Also Impeached at Meeting

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 13—Members of the Oklahoma Legislature, who have been playing the game of hide and seek from state militia in an effort to meet and vote upon impeachment charges against Gov. Henry S. Johnston, met at the breakfast hour today and impeached the executive.

The meeting was held at the Huckins Hotel, in the downtown section. O. P. Hill, speaker of the House of Representatives, announced he had been informed the Senate would meet later and receive a committee from the house with the charges. Members of the Senate last night met in caucus and pledged full support of the House.

Chief Justice Fred T. Branson of the State Supreme Court and Charles B. Cordell, president of the State Board of Agriculture, also were impeached. Justice Branson was charged with "corruption in office" and Cordell with alleged "payroll padding."

Six Charges Voted

Six charges were voted against the governor the first of which, like the case of Gov. J. C. (Jack) Walton, four years ago, was "wrongful and illegal suppression of the state legislature and preventing said body from functioning in its legal capacity at the state capitol."

Other charges were based on alleged "general incompetency."

The House adjourned at 7:30 o'clock to meet later at a place unannounced, and preparations went forward for quick organization of a board of managers to present the impeachment charges to the Senate which already has resolved into a high court of impeachment.

Meanwhile the State Supreme Court had not acted upon a temporary injunction granted Governor Johnson in district court yesterday against the members meeting at any place within the state to impeach any state official.

The senate caucus at midnight provoked no interference from the 70 members of the national guard which was called yesterday to duty.

WEST MARION UNDER WATER AFTER STORM

W. Center-st Near Leader-st Impassable; Many Basements Flooded

West Marion in the vicinity of Leader-st was under water again today as the second severe rain storm within the last two weeks swept over the city shortly before noon. Precautions taken by many of the merchants on W. Center-st against such storms prevented flooded basements.

The water pouring down from the uptown district covered the street from curb to curb and made crossing, unless equipped with boots, practically impossible.

Flooded streets also were reported from many other sections of the city. The water pouring down State-st from both the north and south, united at Columbia-st and flooded the street at the intersection making crossing difficult. Small twigs and branches blown down in the recent wind storm, helped to clog up the catch basins and slowed up the draining away of the water.

Reports of many flooded basements was received from the eastern part of the city as well as from the west. E. Center-st homes which have the service of a combination storm-water and sanitary sewer, are usually the first to suffer from flooded basements. The situation on Jefferson-st and practically all of the streets extending north from Center also is bad.

ABANDON EFFORT

Three Unsuccessful Attempts Made for Endurance Flight

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 13—After three unsuccessful attempts to shatter the record for sustained flight, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian airman, today had apparently abandoned his plans of breaking the endurance record in favor of a flight to Hawaii. Smith was scheduled to make a test flight today in his tri-motored Fokker plane. He said he expected to begin the flight to Hawaii within a few days. In the event that the 2,400 mile flight to Hawaii is negotiated, Smith said he expected to continue his air journey to Australia.

LEGION POST IS GIVEN DEED TO NEW HOME

Organization Acquires Possession of Community House on S. High-st

Marion's World War veterans came into possession of their American Legion home today, thus attaining a goal toward which they have been working for several years.

This important step in the progress of the local ex-service men's organization was taken when a deed for the Community Home, S. High-st, was delivered by the former owner, John Baldauf, to officers of the Legion Holding Co.

Purchase of the property for use as a Legion home was authorized several weeks ago in a referendum vote taken among the members of Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 192, who voted almost unanimously for the project.

Plain Final Report

Formal transfer of the property was made today to George T. Gerau, president of the Legion Holding Co. and Russell C. Sears, secretary. A report of the final transaction will be made to Bird-McGinnis Post, Wednesday night. Management of the home will be in charge of the holding company, which consists of four members of the Legion post and one representative of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

It is expected that plans will be made soon for formal dedication ceremonies.

BLAZE THREATENS WAKEMAN VILLAGE

Brought Under Control After Aid Comes from Norwalk Department

Norwalk, Dec. 13—Fire, which for a time threatened the entire business section of Wakeman, 11 miles east of here, had been placed under control this morning, after the Norwalk Fire Department had rushed a pumper from here to aid in fighting the flames.

Believed to have originated in a garage which was connected with the general store of Louis Burke, the fire, which broke out about 1 a. m., spread rapidly to the grocery of Harry Stoll, Clifford Campbell's Restaurant and a building housing the postoffice and the Northern Ohio Telephone Company's exchange. The latter building and Stoll's restaurant were destroyed. One half of Burke's general store, carrying plumbing supplies, was gutted. The other half of the Burke building proper was saved, but the stock of merchandise was destroyed.

Damage was estimated between $80,000 and $100,000, of which Louis Burke was said to have been the heaviest loser. A majority of the loss was covered by insurance, it was stated.

Telephone communication into Wakeman will not be restored before Wednesday or Thursday, officials of the telephone company said today.

Young Hewitt was convicted of killing 5-year-old Fred Brown, Jr. Hewitt, it was alleged, confessed that he killed the child after taking the life of its mother, Mrs. Fred Brown.

APPLICATIONS PILING UP AT COUNTY OFFICE

Practically All Come from Residents of Villages and Rural Districts

WOULD SERVE ONE YEAR

Officials Say New Member Must Come from North Section of County

Approximately 60 applications, practically all from residents of villages and rural districts, have been filed for the vacancy in the board of county commissioners resulting from the death of John N. Rexroth, it was stated today. Names of the applicants are listed with County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, Probate Judge L. B. McNeal and County Recorder Charles E. Smith, who are to make the appointment.

These officials have indicated that the place will be filled by an appointee living in the north section of the county, where Mr. Rexroth resided. This has practically been agreed upon as the fairest and most feasible plan for having all parts of the county represented on the board. Present members of the board are O. W. Kinnamon, who lives in the southwestern section of the county and W. M. King, a resident of Richland township, in the southeastern district.

To Serve 10 Months

It is expected that the appointment will be made Wednesday.

The appointee will serve approximately 10 months under provisions of the state law, which stipulates that a member of the board of commissioners named to fill a vacancy shall hold office only until his successor is elected and qualified. The election will take place in November of 1928.

The commissioner elected will serve on the term of Mr. Rexroth, which runs to Dec. 31, 1930.

United Mine Workers Fully Represented, Operators Absent as Session Opens

Washington, Dec. 13—With a full representation of the United Mine Workers and only a handful of operators present, Secretary of Labor Davis' coal parley got under way here today.

The refusal of operators in central and western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Northern West Virginia to participate threw a wet blanket on the proceedings and little hope was held out that any real peace would be obtained.

John L. Lewis, president, and Phillip Murray, vice president, respectively, of the United Mine Workers, led the union forces. Davis refused to give out a list of the operators present.

Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic Relieved Cleveland Woman of All Her Aches and Pains

Mrs. William Uhlenbecker, 4580 Miessen Ave., Cleveland, O., is 81 years of age and although this is well past the prime of life until a few months ago she had been remarkably well preserved. And then, all at once, so to speak, Mrs. Uhlenbecker began to fail rapidly.

REDWOOD

Some thought it was old age but Mrs. Uhlenbecker didn't think hat way. She had pains all over her body. Her son had been taking Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic with splendid results and so she decided to try it herself.

"When I started to take this medicine," says Mrs. Uhlenbecker, "I had backaches that nearly killed me with pain. I had tried all kinds of medicines without results and didn't have much faith in anything. However this Indian medicine had helped my son so much that I decided to try it myself. Some thought my trouble came from old age but I want to say that Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic drove the rheumatism right out of my body.

"Everybody notices a big change in me. I don't have any more pain in my back. My appetite is good and my bowels are regular. I am stronger in every way and am very grateful to Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic."

Tepee Tonic is sold in Marion by Bradley's, Henney & Cooper's, Wm. M. Stump's, Bartlett's and all drug stores; Richwood, H. D. Kyle's and Lower's. —Adv.

Three Ordinances To Cover Deficit in Various Funds Passed at Meeting

Three ordinances providing for the transfer of money from one fund to another to take care of shortages which usually appear the latter part of the year, were passed by City Council at its meeting last night.

Transfers in the health department including the placing of $120 from the contingent account, $70 from the quarantine incidental account and $45 from the sanitary incidental account to $140 in the quarantine account for food and coal and $05 to the quarantine account medical supplies.

In the election fund provisions were made to transfer $300 from the account for registration clerks to booth rent. The third ordinance provided for the transfer of $1,008 from the garbage collection fund to the account for pay roll and $200 from the general service fund to the account for street lights.

Man With Basement Full of Water Seeks Council's Aid

Aid of the city in arranging a workable plan to prevent his basement from filling with water after every heavy rain, was asked by L. H. Fulk, Blaine-av at the meeting of Marion Council last night.

Mr. Fulk told council that after every heavy rain, the water from the Dorice lots at the rear of his property which had formerly drained to the street by way of an alley, now sweeps over his yard. He frequently has as much as four feet of water in his basement, he said. He also asked council for advice as how to get rid of his present basement full of water, held to be a plugged drain.

Alleys at the rear of the Fulk home which have been filled in until they are higher than the surrounding lots are, in a large measure, responsible for the trouble, City Engineer Tom Cathers told council. A committee consisting of the street and alley committee and the city engineer was appointed by President Murphy to investigate and report at the next meeting of council.

The sewer committee also was instructed by President Murphy to investigate the condition at the Harding home on Mt. Vernon-av. According to a communication received by council from Major O. M. Baldinger, who resides at the home, after each rain the water drains over the yard from the lots at the rear marring the newly-made lawn.

FEAR RADIO TANGLE WILL GROW WORSE

Congress Not Likely To Extend Commission's Authority, Is Belief

Washington, Dec. 13—Uncle Sam's puzzling task of unscrambling the radio tangle will be further complicated in March if Congress fails to extend the life of the Federal Radio Commission and the regulatory powers of the Department of Commerce.

Radio, although convalescing rapidly, is not yet sufficiently recovered to permit a change of "doctors," experts declared today.

If Congress fails to act, the radio commission can not turn over a smoothly working broadcasting setup to the department, as had been contemplated when the original law limited its regulatory activities to one year.

The general belief is, however, that Congress will not extend the commission. President Coolidge, in his message to congress, avoided any mention of the radio situation, indicating that he is satisfied to let the present law stand.

It was agreed by proponents of the commission plan that this form of regulation should last one year. On this agreement senators and representatives who wanted control to stay in the hands of Secretary Hoover, dropped their opposition to the commission.

Let us frame your pictures now for Christmas. New mouldings at Murphey's.—Adv.

Catarrhal Deafness Unnecessary

In catarrhal deafness there is a constant inflammation of the little air passage from throat to ear. This partially closes this tube, so the air cannot pass freely, and the result is distressing, rumbling noises, feeling of fullness and dulled hearing. Relieve the inflammation of mucous membranes with Hall's Catarrh Medicine, and this condition clears up, inflammation is reduced, and Nature quickly restores a normal condition. Successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c.

CLOSE COURTHOUSE

Business Suspended in Memory of Late John N. Rexroth

Transaction of business was suspended at the courthouse today and county offices were closed as a tribute to John N. Rexroth, member of the board of commissioners who died Friday night and whose funeral services were held this afternoon.

The sheriff's office will also be closed all day, Wednesday as a mark of respect for Mrs. Harrison Deal, whose funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by burial in LaRue Cemetery. She was the mother of Sheriff James A. Deal and Deputy George W. Deal. Funeral rites will be held at the sheriff's residence on N. State-st, where Mrs. Deal's death occurred late Saturday afternoon.

175 FARMERS WILL GET FERTILIZER REBATES

Leeper, service manager of the local organization. The total amount of the checks is $810.30 Leeper states. The total amount of fertilizer sold by the Farm Bureau this fall was 371 tons and was valued at $10,503.75.

CITY COUNCIL HEARS POWER RATE BATTLE

Ordinance Establishing Charge for Steel Co. Tabled for Two Weeks

City council at its meeting last night was made the unwilling audience of a rate controversy between the Alloy Steel Casting Co. and the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co., when the ordinance fixing a rate schedule for the two, came up for the third reading and adoption.

Attorneys Grant E. Mouser and Hector S. Young, representing the steel company, were present and asked that council hold up the ordinance for at least two weeks longer in order that they might investigate the rates, while A. F. VanDeinse, president, and W. P. Moloney, attorney for the electric company, asked that it be passed at once in order that the company might have a copy of the schedule on file with the public utilities commission as early as possible. The ordinance was tabled for two weeks.

Cites Coal Clause

The schedule provides for a rate for the operation of the electric furnace at the Alloyd plant and, it was explained to council by Attorney Moloney, contains a coal clause which gives the consumer the benefit of a drop in the price paid by the electric company for coal. Before a rate schedule containing such a clause can be submitted to the utilities commission, however, the attorney said, it must be passed on by the city council.

By eliminating the coal clause the schedule could be filed with the commission direct, Mr. Moloney pointed out, but this, he said, would mean a higher rate to the consumer. And this, he said, is what they would do if council refused to pass the ordinance last night.

In spite of the prospects of a higher rate, the attorneys for the steel company, persisted in their request that the ordinance be held up. Attorney Young explaining that the present contract will expire in six months and with the new schedule filed with the utilities commission, the factory will be classified and it will be difficult for it to dicker for a lower rate.

Contract Approved

A second rate ordinance, similar to that with the Alloy Steel Co., and which provides a rate for the operating of a roller mill and ice manufacturing plant, was passed by council when no protest was filed by either the Pollak Steel Co., or the Marion Ice & Cold Storage Co. with whom the contracts were made.

The rate covers a consumption of 30,000 volts, three phases and 60 cycles and provides for a service charge of .625 cents per kilowatt hour and an energy charge from April 1 to Sept. 30 of 1.10 cents. From 9 p. m. to 7 a. m. during the period from Oct. 1 to March 30 the rate will be 1.10 cents per kilowatt hour and from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. a rate of 1.425 cents per kilowatt hour will prevail.

PURSUE COURSE OF STRATEGY

Get Host of "Secondary Choice" Promises from Delegation Managers

Washington, Dec. 13—If the Republican convention at Kansas City next June gets itself knotted up in a deadlock, as a number of shrewd politicians believe it may, the current tip in Washington is: "Look out for Curtis."

While the candidacies of Herbert Hoover, Charles G. Dawes and Frank O. Lowden are receiving most of the attention and the publicity at this early stage of the pre-convention game, the backers of the Kansas senator are saying little and sawing quite a lot of wood. Without any blaring of trumpets they are assiduously making a collection of "secondary choice" promises against the time when—and if—the convention gets to the deadlock point.

The Harding managers at Chicago in 1920 pursued a course of strategy along the same broad lines with historic results.

The strategy and the hopes of the Curtis people are predicated almost entirely upon the possibility of the convention deadlocking over the candidacies of Hoover, Dawes, Lowden and favorite sons. Frankly recognizing that the Senate leader cannot hope to compete with the "big three" in popular appeal, the Kansan's backers have gone methodically about the business of obtaining secondary support wherever possible, and they have had success enough to date to make them extremely optimistic.

It's the Politicians

In this effort, they have been aided enormously by the personal popularity of "Charley" Curtis. The Kansan may not be so well known to the country at large, but as one cynic put it, "the people don't make nominees, the politicians make 'em." And Senator Curtis is widely-known and liked by the politicians, and by his Republican colleagues in the Senate, all of whom will be in the Kansas City convention, many of them at the head of their respective delegations.

Curtis is being quietly presented to "the people who make nominees" as "the ideal compromise." His record is virtually unassailable. He is, his friends say, the one Republican who could be accepted by the hard-boiled Republican orthodoxy of the east as well as by the Insurgent element of the grain belt from whence he comes. He voted for the McNary-Haugen bill, but only after his own agricultural plan, incorporated in the Curtis-Oswell bill, was voted down last session. He has been in the Senate for twenty years as a regular from a progressive and sometimes Insurgent state—a rare tribute to his political sagacity and shrewdness.

The Curtis backers have been encouraged, too, by the fact that the powerful eastern states have no candidate and apparently are in a quandary as to where to go. The eastern leaders are admittedly lukewarm on Hoover and Lowden, and they are not especially enamored by Dawes, at least, at this stage of the game. The large states like New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts are marking time and surveying the field.

Recall Announcement

If they can be "sold" on Curtis, it makes him a front-rank contender. If not, then the promise of secondary support leaves him in an ideal position for consideration as a compromise should the convention deadlock.

That, in short, is the present strategy of the Curtis campaign—the only one that is frankly in the open at this time. Senator Curtis announced his candidacy long before President Coolidge made his famous amplification. He made the announcement, moreover, soon after getting off the Mayflower where he had spent a week-end with Mr. Coolidge. The assumption is that he would not have made the announcement had he not been assured that his candidacy was favorably regarded by the Coolidge administration.

The Curtis backers freely admit their shot is a long one. But they point out that long shots can and do romp home sometimes—to wit; in 1920.

executive. "Well, well, well," the former "iron man" confided to Governor Johnston, "you've not got a chance. Why, I called out 300 guards to stop the legislature and they impeached me."

Speaker Hill would not divulge the next prospective meeting place. Meanwhile the city and state was surcharged with drama for, in the case of Governor Walton four years ago, many court and military angles occupied the attention of all the various factions, the legislature standing by until a later date, finally being called by Governor Walton himself.

Word that Governor Johnston had invoked the state militia when it was supposed he would wait for the courts to thresh out the situation electrified the feeling for and against Governor Johnston, throughout the state and many senators and politicians hurried to the capitol overnight to take an active part.

TWO ARE KILLED

Plane, Caught in Heavy Fog, Falls at Montpelier

Bryan, Dec. 13—John Zeigler of Detroit, pilot of a Waco air service plane, and C. J. Parker of Portland, Ore., are dead today following the crash yesterday when the plane, in a heavy fog, came down at Montpelier, near here.

This may be said for installment buying; it has brought back the old practice of house-to-house calls.

An exchange says the automobile has done more to break the family circle than any other agency. Certainly a lot of them are generally "broke" as a result of it.

Wall street is now betting that Hoover will be nominated. We felt right along that Herb's luck couldn't last forever; that sooner or later he was bound to receive a knock.

Clarence Darrow says Remus had a good reputation as a lawyer, but, as Clarence himself has demonstrated, there are so many standards by which to judge the reputation of a lawyer.

Chinese soldiers are said to have mistaken a typewriting machine for a machine gun. If they but knew it, the typewriter is a far more dangerous weapon, judging by the relative damage the two have done.

A Washington wire says Lowden is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. How easily one can be deceived! Here we've been assuming right along that the oceans of newspaper publicity given him for months past presaged a break into the movies or an effort on his part to elevate the stage.

Governor Donahey has announced that it is his desire to retire at the end of his present term. We never took much stock in question of Vic's Democracy, but maybe there was some ground for it after all.

Burglars robbed a New Castle, Pennsylvania, business place and carried off an 800-pound safe. It strikes us that, when a derrick has to be included in a burglar's kit, that occupation has become too mechanical longer to be called a profession.

Up to a late hour this afternoon we hadn't heard anything to indicate that our good Marion friends with winter homes or other investments in St. Petersburg, Florida, were arranging to meet Scarface Al Capone with a brass band when he arrives there with his gangsters and gunmen to open headquarters for his international rum-running gang.

Was the Senate Within Its Rights?

Without considering the wisdom of its course, or lack thereof, there is grave question of the legal right of the United States senate to follow the course it did in refusing to permit Senator-Elect Smith, of Illinois, and Senator-Elect Vare, of Pennsylvania, to take the oath of office to which they were elected by their respective states. We are not upholding the use of excessive amounts of money in political campaigns. None could be more opposed to such practices than this newspaper. But we believe that the upper house of congress seriously erred in following the course it did in the cases of these two senators-elect; that it thereby established a dangerous precedent and one decidedly unfriendly to a representative democratic form of government.

Under Article I of the federal constitution, we find that "the senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state." The tenth amendment to the constitution reads: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." The seventeenth amendment provides that senators shall be elected by direct popular vote.

In the cases of both the senators-elect, the fact was known to all the voters that immense sums of money had been expended in their behalf in the primaries. Oceans of newspaper space were given to this fact and it was made an issue throughout the campaign. Yet, despite all this, the voters of their respective state elected Mr. Vare and Mr. Smith to the senate. The two senators presented themselves to take the oath of office and were barred from so doing by vote of the senate.

Unquestionably, Section 5 of Article I of the constitution says: "Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members." We grant that. But can either house "judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications" of those who are not of its membership? Under the constitution, could the senate judge the cases of Messrs. Vare and Smith before the oath of office had been administered to them and they became members of that body?

We do not believe it. More than that, deprecating the use of money as it was used in their campaigns as we do, we still feel that danger lies in this precedent, wherein the people of Pennsylvania and Illinois are debarred of their full right of representation in the senate, by the refusal of the senate to admit to membership the two senators-elect chosen by the people of their respective states in full knowledge of all the facts alleged against them.

Regarding Gun Elevation.

The lower house of congress took patriotic and sensible action when, by a vote of 215 to seventy-five, it struck from the deficiency bill a provision which estopped the elevation of the guns of the main batteries of the battleships, Nevada and Oklahoma. The vote was taken on an amendment to the deficiency bill, which appropriated $5,635,000 to modernize the two battleships named with a stipulation that "no part of this fund shall be expended for alterations to increase the range of the turret guns of such ships." The amendment thus carried provides that "alterations of the capital ships herein authorized shall be subject to limitations prescribed in the treaty limiting armaments, ratified August 17, 1923."

Each of the two battleships in question has a displacement of 27,500 tons, a speed of twenty-one knots and a main battery of ten forty-five caliber fourteen-inch guns. By forty-five caliber is meant that each of these guns has a length from breech-block to muzzle of forty-five times the diameter of its bore; in other words, forty-five times fourteen inches. They were up to date in 1916, the year in which they were completed, but since that time turrets have been so constructed as to permit of far greater elevation of guns with a consequent great increase in range. As the vessels are now, they might never be able to fire an effective shot in battle, so great are they outranged by the guns of the up-to-date fighting ships of other nations. In other words, a naval battle might, and probably would, be won or lost before they could come close enough to the enemy to use their guns.

The foes of any changes which would permit greater elevation of the guns of our battleships have been claiming that such alterations would be in violation of the "spirit" of the Washington treaty. This contention was denied by the supporters of the amendment, and Chairman Butler, of the house naval affairs committee, announced from the floor of the house that neither Great Britain nor Japan objected to the elevation of the guns on our first-line major ships.

Even had these powers objected, the house was justified in taking the action it did for both of them, without that high regard for the "spirit" of the treaty of which those here at home, who would handicap our navy, are so inclined to prate, have been elevating their guns to meet the lessons taught in the World war.

And speaking about the "spirit" of the Washington treaty, which was one of the most unfortunate for this country of any into which we ever entered, the United States gave up far more than any of the signatories to it. At the time we had building the battleships Washington, Indiana, South Dakota, Montana, North Calolnia, Massachusetts and Iowa, of a total tonnage of 291,800, and four of the six great battle cruisers authorized—the Constitution, United States, Constellation and Ranger, of a total tonnage of 174,000. With these completed, we would have had easily the most powerful navy afloat. The Washington was over seventy-five per cent. completed. It was bombed and sunk. The first of the battle cruisers was converted into the plane carrier, Sarotoga, the largest and swiftest major warship afloat, and work on the other vessels under construction was abandoned. In addition to this we scrapped the Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Georgia, Nebraska, Connecticut, Louisiana, Kansas, Vermont, Minnesota, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Carolina, Michigan and Delaware, all of them old completed capital ships. In a word, to stop naval rivalry, this country sacrified the great advantage it possessed. All the profit accrued to Britain and Japan. All the sacrifice was ours.

Under these circumstances, it is to be hoped that the upper house of congress will follow the lead of the lower and make possible the higher elevation of the guns on the two warships named, regardless of what may be the conception of some regarding the "spirit" of the treaty of 1923. Neither Britain nor Japan have permitted themselves to be handicapped by a construction of it which precludes them from bringing their sea fighters up to date. Why should we? And why, if it is possible, should be not go further and substitute for the fourteen-inch guns in their main batteries sixteen-inch guns such as we have mounted in the Colorado, Maryland and West Virginia. While we are at it, why not go the whole way?

Senator Foss now predicts that Hoover or Dawes will be the Republican nominee. As lightning change artists in the manipulation of their prophetic mills, the weather people haven't a thing on Simeon.

Women's emancipation in sight at last! A London scientist says it would take only twenty years of scientific breeding and training to produce a baboon capable of doing household work. Think of the glad day when there will be a can-opener and a baboon in every home!

A Cleveland paper predicts that holiday kisses will be at a premium because mistletoe will be scarce. Great Scott! And we used to believe that old Rip Van Winkle had established a real record in the matter of protracted slumbering!

With the Remus murder trial in progress, the prosecution has secured the indictment of two of the defense witnesses for perjury, which, just as likely as not, may open the doors to an error proceeding, if the trial doesn't result to the liking of the former bootlegger.

One witness testifies that Mrs. Remus was a devoted wife and another swore she hired him to kill her husband, which goes to show how close may be the relationship between devotion and murder in this day of jazz and the bootleg stuff.

An Akron pastor scores Christmas cards suggesting that the money invested might better go to the Sunday-school. Why not go the entire distance and utilize all money ordinarily expended in Christmas gifts the same way? Let's take as much joy and gladness out of life as possible and make this old world of ours as drab as we can.

MARIONETTES.

St. Vitus's Dance.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Everybody knows a lot about the muscles. But do you know you have two kinds of muscles?

There are some which work automatically. Entirely without your knowledge or conscious effort these muscles do their work. They are called involuntary muscles.

A striking example is the heart. This organ is made up of muscles. They contract and relax without your aid and in spite of anything you might do to prevent it. Asleep or awake, year in and year out, your heart—"Old Faithful"—goes on about its business.

Most of our muscles are of a different sort—the voluntary kind. They never act except when we order them to do so. They are entirely within the control of the will.

Shut your hand, clench it tightly. See the knuckles grow white, so great is the pressure of these voluntary muscles. Open the hand, spread out the fingers—your will to do this is all that is needed. The muscles respond to your desires.

So long as you are in normal health the voluntary muscles will do as you command. When they fail to answer your summons, something is wrong.

Some children are afflicted by the loss of control of certain muscles. The face may be drawn into horrid grimaces. The head is drawn to one side, the eyes wink rapidly, one shoulder is raised and the arm twitches. An onlooker is shocked at the antics of the sufferer.

Of course the child is unhappy over the effects of muscular contractions which he can not control. He is ashamed to face his playmates.

This particular form of disturbance in the voluntary muscles is known to the doctors as "chorea." By the laity it is called "St. Vitus's dance."

About one-fifth of the nervous diseases which children have is this particular ailment. Children from five to fifteen are the ones most commonly afflicted. It is "outgrown" usually and rarely continues into adult life.

Chorea is a city disease. Of course it may be found anywhere, but the housing and feeding problems of the city poor are factors in its production. Overstudy, worry and excessive fatigue are in the background of many cases.

Bad teeth, diseased tonsils, rheumatism, measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever—any one of these may be the beginning of an undermining of the nervous system. St. Vitus's dance may follow.

If the teeth are defective or the tonsils diseased the doctor will give attention to their condition. When these troubles are removed, it is very probable the child will improve rapidly. Not only will the nervous disturbance disappear, but also the general health will be better.

Eyestrain can not be disregarded as among the exciting causes of chorea. Properly fitted glasses may do a lot of good.

The child must not be laughed at or ridiculed. If he can not be protected from this misery, he must be taken from school. Rest and fresh air are important. So are good food, regular exercise and entertainment.

After a few weeks the attacks will disappear. Ultimately the child overcomes the troubles and gets entirely well.

Poems That Live.

WHAT IS TO COME.

What is to come we know not. But we know
That what has been was good—was good to show,
Better to hide, and best of all to bear,
We are the masters of the days that were:
We have lived, we have loved, we have suffered, even so,
Shall we not take the ebb who had the flow?
Life was our friend. Now, if it be our foe—
Dear, though it spoil and break us, need we care
What is to come?

Let the great winds their worst and wildest blow,
Or the cold weather around us mellow slow;
We have fulfilled ourselves, and we can dare,
And we can conquer, though we may not share
In the rich quiet of the afterglow
That is to come.

—W. E. Henley.

Editorial Comment.

SHIPS AND THE LAW.

Harper Leech has quoted in his column a letter from the president of the lake shipping company protesting against some of the requirements of the La Follette seamen's act. The most important of the objections are raised against arbitrary requirements of man power aboard ship.

With American wages and standards of living what they are, we can hardly hope to gain the position on the sea to which we are entitled so long as American methods of meeting foreign competition are forbidden by law. Our industries can compete with foreign rivals, despite far higher wages in this country, because we employ machinery, and mechanical power is cheaper than American man power. The law forces American ship owners to employ more men than are needed to operate ships with modern labor-saving devices, and this is particularly true of freighters, which do not require, for the safety of passengers, a large number of seamen to man the boats in an emergency.

In the days of sailing ships an officer of a large ship could not be expected to handle the wheel himself and direct the crew in shifting sails as well, particularly in bad weather. He gave his orders to the wheelman and divided his attention between the wheelman and the crew above. The wheelman is now a mere survival. So, to a large extent, are many of the deck hands required by law. They are not needed. The officer on duty on the bridge can guide the ship with the help of machinery. Machinery loads and unloads the ship and stokes the boilers. Devices have been perfected by which a ship can be held to its course without human interference. It was risky to go to sea without a surplus of experienced seamen in the days of sails, but in our day there is little more reason for carrying superfluous men on a ship than on a freight train. They only add to the cost of operation without to any appreciable extent adding to the factor of safety.

This country may be able to compete with foreign lands in the carrying trade when the law permits Americans to run ships as Mr. Insull runs his power plants, with the smallest number of workmen consistent with reasonable hours of labor and safe and continuous operation.—Chicago Tribune.

A MATTER OF DEFINITION.

When is a nation an aggressor? In any war there is an inevitable difference of opinion. Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, is unalterably opposed to any peace program which takes into consideration the question of what an aggressor nation is. Borah says that the only resolution which can win his approval must decline to recogize war as legitimate "at any time or under any circumstances."

There can be no disagreement with the senator's opinion that grave difficulty must be encountered in judging which is an aggressor nation. Sometimes both sides are clearly aggressive. But it can hardly be possible to bring the United States or any other power to sanction the outlawing of war in self-defense.

Belgium was clearly not an aggressor in her heroic struggle of self-defense against Germany, and yet, according to the Borah contention, Belgium would have to be held culpable for engaging in a war of resistance.

In theory the senator is unassailable. "If war has to come," he says, "it should come in contravention and in violation of peace plans and international law and not under their acquiescence, approval or protection." But, once more, how about Belgium in 1914? And how about the United States if some nation were to attack and invade our territory without even the formality of a declaration of belligerency?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dinner Stories.

"Good Heavens!" sighed Senator Sorghum. "Don't we know enough?"

Not every one cares to have an aerodrome located near one's residence. There's the old lady in England, for instance. A visitor remarked to her: "You are having a fine time, granny with all those aeroplanes showing what they can do."

Prayer—O Lord God, Thou art the All Sufficient Helper.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON

Although every community is afflicted with a number of citizens so conceited that they are next to unendurable, the fact remains that one of the commonest weaknesses of the average man is his lack of respect for himself. The master foe of a reasonably successful life is lack of self-respect.

When you arrive at the conclusion that you are somebody, that you have an important job to do, that your judgment is as likely to be right as the next man's, and that you have a right to the expression of your opinion, you have made a long step up. When you have come to respect yourself you have started somewhere.

There is nothing better in life than the feeling of independence, the feeling that you are too valuable to be thrown into the street, the feeling that you are needed—and the feeling that you have the courage to use your own judgment.

We become so used to certain bad conditions of living that we do little about them. In fact, we think little about them. That is dangerous. For example, we have all heard so much about the "smoke nuisance" in the last twenty years that there is no kick left in the complaint. We just accept the smoke nuisance. And therein we are weak-minded. New York, which is considered a very bright and clean city, loses thirty-one per cent. of its available sunlight because of a pall of smoke. Many other cities are vastly worse than New York. There is plenty of ingenuity among men to bring something to pass that would cure this situation, but we have accepted the evil.

Smoke in cities is not merely a matter of dirt and depression. The sun is a great healer of human ills. We need the rays of the sun and we are deprived of them, needlessly, by smoke. A smarter generation, coming after us, will not tolerate smoke.

Scientists say nitroglycerin may soon be used as fuel for naval torpedoes, instead of super-heated compressed air. Nitroglycerin would more than double the motive power of torpedoes. Too bad so many of the good brains of the country are engaged in devising tools of war and death. What results we might hope for if the best brains of America might be drafted to work on plans for international peace!

Science keeps maintaining it can measure human intelligence. We still hear that a boy's future can be predicted when he is twelve years old. Good enough in theory—and very interesting. But it simply does not work out—not always. There is something unmeasured and unknown in every boy and girl. It is unpredictable. The best we can do is to give the youngster the best possible home and the best place to play and the best place to work. And all of these things are up to elders.

That It's No Worse Than It Is.

Of course, it is really none of our business, but we can't help wondering what the Republicans of Indiana will point to with pride when they come to the making of their next year's platform.—Columbus Dispatch.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 13—That section along Tenth avenue known as Hell's Kitchen has always been considered the toughest territory in the city. By day and by night it has a brooding, sinister manner. Cops often walk in pairs and the snitch is found lifeless in vacant lots.

It is the last stand of the side-of-the-mouth talkers—who call a girl "a skoit" wear sweaters and caps with the visors over one ear. Its gangsters are not always the petty pilferers who terrorize small tradesmen but huskies who battle often for the sheer love of fighting.

They, of course, hate cops. That is the first law of the gangster. The violence of Hell's Kitchen differs from that of the sneering pistol ambusher of the East Side who blazes away from a roof top or auto and runs. Hell's Kitchen uses its fists and fights in the open.

Almost every Hell's Kitchen tough has his "moll buzzer"—one of those indefinite mobsters who wink slyly along side streets of Broadway. It is little to his credit, but toughs of Hell's Kitchen are American. There is a pronounced and dangerous hatred for foreigners.

The hang-outs of the denizens are dingy pool halls. Here some plan petty crimes—hold-ups of restaurants, cigar stores and such and the waylaying of bank messengers. Such are usually in league with the pirate taxi-drivers for the get away.

The neighborhood has local characters who are known by such robust nick-names as "Butch," "Slops," "Dusty" and "Red." The girls are Gerties, Pansies, Mamies and Minnies. The Saturday night "racket" is still a feature event—a dance of the clan in a hired hall.

Respectable families—and there are many in Hell's Kitchen—look on with resignation. It has always been so and they expect no change. There is a code among the toughs that protects them. They are the sort known as "good to their mothers."

A New York millionaire takes—to many at least—an ideal vacation. For three weeks every year he visits some small town in which he is a total stranger. He packs along a pile of mystery novels and just reads, sleeps and smokes a pipe. Only his wife knows his address.

Reporters are not the humble worms they are pictured. A group of them waited at a certain Park avenue mansion to question the autocratic master about a rather personal and embarrassing matter. When he drew up in his car and stepped out, they surrounded him.

"I'll have nothing to say to you rotten scavengers," he blustered.

"All right," said a member of the clan, but at least you will remember one of us"—and he promptly stepped forward and socked the great man in the eye.

Novels and the stage have popularized a certain type of reporter which can not be uprooted. He is a glum, seedy-looking individual with an extremely cynical manner with a pencil poised over a notebook and a flowing bow tie. The reporter has always been as well-dressed as the average man and has a sense of humor or he would not be a reporter. If he takes notes, he usually borrows a pencil and makes them on the back of perhaps the latest statement from his tailor.

The good reporter is not easily bamboozled. He has been trained to detect deception. He usually listens with a bland attitude of acquiescence and many have believed they completely fooled him—until they pick up the paper the next morning.

Tulley Marshall, if memory serves, is the only actor I ever say who played a reporter's part as it should be played. He acted like an ordinary human being.

When a crossing cop gave me an undeserved push back to the curb this morning, I waited until I reached the other side and crossed right back again sneering. Just one of my wild and hot-blooded moments. — Copyright, 1927.

Hospitable Hottentots.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The usual ferocity and over-heated zeal attributed by popular song-writers to what they hesitantly refer to as "Those hot, hot Hottentots" is woefully lacking in the organisms of those under-sized inhabitants of South Africa. As a matter of fact, they are uncomfortably gentle, almost tepid, you might say, being mild and placable quite to the point of ingenuousness. That remote quality in our world of ultra-civilization, mutual affection is the keynote of their existence. Your true Hottentot is hospitable almost like unto the Arabs. And the man or woman among them who would eat, drink or smoke alone is held in contempt by the populace.

As would be expected of a tepid people, generous and uncombative, one finds an aura of lassitude and indolence about them. Without being deficient in talents, they prefer the dilletante method of swinging into action only when the spirit moves them.

A curious custom is their love for adorning the human anatomy with various artistic curves and circles. This they do, not in the usual fashion, with dye and paints but by making use of a far more unique coloring matter. These South Africans decorate their clothes—or rather, cloths—with grease. Prosperous Hottentots are very lavish in the matter of butter and fats. And if you lived in a kraal in Hottentotland and garnished yourself as piece de resistance with plenty of table butter and goose grease, you would be very well off indeed.

Various voodoo ceremonies are practised to ward off the ghoulish influence of ghosts and specters. The "snake in the fountain" superstition originated here. This nurtures the belief that there lies at the bottom of every fountain a coiled snake; that if it is killed or driven away, water ceases to flow, and the fountain is forever dry.

A freak twist, and one that bears meditation, is supplied by the administration of native laws. A murderer, if caught, is beaten or stoned to death. But escape, if the killer is at large for one year, brings automatic disqualification, and immunity from punishment.—Copyright, 1927.

Christmas Program Given at Presbyterian Church By Lecture-Recital Club

Balcony and Center Section of Main Auditorium Filled for Presentation. Chorus Heard in "Seraphic Song" Arranged by Rubenstein

Music patrons of the city were given an evening of exceptional entertainment when members of the Lecture-Recital Club were heard in their annual Christmas program last night at the First Presbyterian Church. The presentation of a program at this time each year is the clubs annual contribution of the season to music lovers of Marion and vicinity and is open to the public without charge. An audience which occupied the entire balcony and practically all the middle section of the main auditorium heard the program which was well presented and one of the most enjoyable of the year.

If one number could be said to be more enjoyable than another it was the "Seraphic Song," an arrangement of Rubenstein's romantic "Kamennoi Ostrow," sung by the club chorus, with Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford singing the contralto solo and Miss Betty Robertson, a member of the Ohio Wesleyan University String Quartet, playing the violin obligato. Miss Helen Charlene Bever, club accompanist, and Mrs. Harry T. Williams, organist, played the accompaniments for the number and also presided for the other numbers given by the club.

The program opened with Demarest's "Rhapsody," played by Miss Grace Durfee, pianist, and Mrs. R. O. Bresler at the organ, which was one of the delightful numbers of the evening and Miss Dorothy Briggs, a talented organist, and graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, where she majored in organ, played "Laus Deo," from "Messe de Mariage," Theodore Dubois.

Group of Carols

Particularly pleasing was the group of Christmas Carols sung by members of the club chorus as were also Mrs. Harry T. Williams' two organ numbers, "The Coming of the Magi," Morse, and "Gesu Bambino," Pietro Yon. Members of the Ohio Wesleyan University String Quartet, composed of Miss Hazel Miner, and Miss Betty Robertson violins, Miss Irene Windecker, viola and Miss Evelyn Schreiber, cello, were heard in a delightful group including "Angel Guard," a spiritual number arranged by Dvorak, "Gen' Love," Opus 36, No. Two, and Valensin's "Minuet."

The program concluded with Gounod's "O Sing to God" by the chorus with Mrs. Albert Lauber, soprano and Mrs. Charles Gallinger, contralto, ably singing the solo parts.

The program was presented under the direction of H. L. LeBaron, head of the department of music, Ohio Wesleyan University, who is directing the work of the club chorus this season.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Story of a Girl Who Tried To Cheat Love

BY GILBERT ROGERS

CHAPTER XVI

DAN SHEVLIN staring at her with his luminous eyes across that table of crystal and flowers . . . and Mrs. Brooke, interested, frowning a little.

Sally's heart felt sick. She would have to tell them, she would have to tell Shevlin that she couldn't go through with her bargain.

This Adrian Martin, all the other Adrian Martins, didn't matter now. It began and ended only with Jerry Eversham.

"Am I crazy?" she half whispered to herself. "I ought to know better. I don't just fall in love with one man—you fall in love with lots of men, and out again!" But what chance had reasoning, observation, knowledge, against the surety of this emotion that possessed her now—this feeling that if Jerry Eversham should die, she would die, too?

Just a young man—without a nickel to his name, with friendly, frank eyes, a straight way of looking at you talking to you, the kind of man who took care of you—how could she help loving him. And if he had been some of those things, how could she help loving him anyway?

What a fool she really had been. Just a thoroughgoing idiot, thinking she could be an adventuress, thinking she could coolly pick out the wealthiest man available—and marry him. Adrian Martin—this unknown Martin—or Tubby Wells—why, the thought itself was sickening.

Only, how was she going to tell Dan Shevlin. How was she going to say, "I don't want to go on. I want you to call our agreement off. I want to pay you back—every penny—later on."

Shevlin fingered the stem of his wine glass, as he glanced about with his hard, alert eyes that missed nothing, a stream of sharp, stinging banter pouring from him. And Sally knew it was not going to be easy.

But that wasn't what worried her really. It was Jerry, Jerry himself. He loved her a little, she thought with an intake of breath. A little—and she could do a lot with a little love. She had to make him care, had to, had to. Else why live at all. Anyway, no matter what might happen, she must get free from Shevlin's schemes. She must get free now, right away.

Coffee—served in little filigree cups of silver—in the drawing room, and Mrs. Brooke desperately anxious to get rid of her.

"I ought to go. I ought to go upstairs and read," Sally told herself. "I ought to lie down with a book and—and think about Jerry. But—act quickly. Get things done. Don't wait or hesitate. Get things done now!"

Shevlin, wound up, thoroughly enjoyed himself. "Adrian Martin," he murmured. "To think he didn't pop into my head right away. Of course you may make no effect, but there's something about you . . . I don't know . . . Now, if I were only rich enough myself . . ."

He grinned, and took in the wince of Carlotta Brooke out of the corner of his eye. Cruel, deliberately cruel, for the sheer pleasure of it. Hateful, really, Sally felt. It didn't matter what you said or did to a man like that. Bad all through. And once upon a time when he had strolled in through the elaborate offices of the Pantheon Finance Co., she had thought he was amusing. Amusing! She hated him now for hurting Carlotta.

"Adian Martin—what a man. Collects pearls and beautiful women. Has had strings of both. Rather a Turk, but even Turks have their little weaknesses. Brilliant devil, too. If you'll believe it, he's even more brilliant than I am!"

The tinkle of a telephone, a servant at the doorway, and Carlotta was called away. Sally was alone with Dan. Do it now, say it and be done with it now!

"I've something to tell you, Mr. Shevlin. No use beating about the bush. I don't think I want to go on—with this plan—any longer." Stilted the words sounded, and flat and mechanical her voice came back to her, like a child reciting . . . "You know—about marrying money. I made a mistake, I guess. Of course, I'll pay you back every cent I've cost you. You'll let me know just how much, and I'll pay as quick as I can."

"Oh!" A short, sardonic ejaculation, a long cool glance, then the lean fingers lighting a cigarette. "Has it occurred to you, I suppose, that I might not care to let you back out?"

Sally's eyes flashed. Oh, if he wanted war, very well. She no longer felt unjust, or a quitter, she wanted to beat him.

"Let me? How could you stop me?"

His searching gaze on her, his malevolent half smile. Then he surprised her. He did the one thing she did not expect. His manner grew suddenly bland, mild, propitiatory.

"Just as you say, how could I . . ." His voice drawled away. Sally remembered for a desperate heart beat that letter she had foolishly given him, that letter in which she had proclaimed to anyone who cared to read that this man had been her lover, her "protector." Had he forgotten? Did he ever forget anything? It couldn't be that. Perhaps he wasn't quite as cruel as he looked. She felt her anger going out out like a tide. Why, she'd almost lost her temper!"

"Yes, how could I?" he asked, almost meditatively. "Oh, well!" He got up, walked to the window, looked out, turned suddenly. "See, here, do me a little favor. Get to know this new man I'm talking about, this Adrian Martin. Get to know him. Make him like you—if you can. Don't think that's so easy either. He's just a little too jaded to fall like Tubby Wells. But try. Do that for me. Then—we'll shake hands and say good-by."

"Why? But why do you want me to—"

"That's a little secret of my own. I'm simply asking you a favor—after all, you owe me one, too."

Sally could have resisted many things, but not an appeal like that. Meet this man, get to know him, try to make him like her—now that she had met Jerry? And yet, if she did go now, if she did refuse, how could she see Jerry anyway. It wasn't as if he loved her desperately, would follow her anywhere. She might—she might go away, and just never see him anymore!

She tried to be honest. "I do owe you a favor. But I—I wouldn't do this one, if it weren't that I've reasons of my own—also."

He bent a frowning gaze on her. "Oh," he said drily. "So that's it, is it? . . . I thought so." What did he mean? He'd found out about Jerry, read her heart and thoughts? But that would be impossible. No, he must mean something else. Yet, his eyes looked so clever. He knew things about women, too clever.

Carlotta was back in the room. No need to stay now. Sally rose, murmured an excuse, started up the stairs. She would stay on for another week, for two weeks perhaps, see Jerry again and again and again. And as for this Adrian Martin—why, she could lunch with him, chat with him once or twice, perhaps. That was all Shevlin asked. A pity if she couldn't do that. She did owe him something. Why, in a way, she owed him Jerry. She wouldn't have met Jerry, if he hadn't given her the chance to come here.

At the head of the stairs on the dark landing, a silent, thin figure. Sally gave a little gasp. Mark Treiaw, Mrs. Brooke's brother, with his withered arm, listening there, eavesdropping.

He put out his hand. "Don't," he said in a low voice.

"What do you mean?"

"Get out of here—while you can—don't believe anything he says. I'm telling you the truth."

He did not wait for an answer, but turned and went down the hallway with his shoulders bent in the way he had, and his head carried forward.

Trying to scare her . . . just listening and hating everybody . . . crippled . . . it didn't mean anything. She hummed as she went into her room as if to hide the curious dread in her heart.

FINAL TRIALS FOR PLAYS BEING HELD AT SCHOOL

Final tryouts for presentation of the three one-act plays, "The Grill", "Joint Owners in Spain" and "Romance of the Willow Pattern" at Central Junior High School Wednesday and Thursday nights are being held this week under the direction of Miss Lucile Foreman, dramatics coach. The junior class is sponsoring the presentation, the two casts for each play being made up of juniors.

In ancient lore numbers had sex, odd numbers being masculine and even numbers feminine. The odd numbers were always regarded as having the greater power of the two.

FLUSH THE KIDNEYS BEFORE BREAKFAST

Drink Lots of Water, Also Take a Little Salts if Back Hurts

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

RHEUMATIC PAIN VANISHED SINCE SHE GOT KONJOLA

Another Marion Lady Says She Is Relieved of Years Suffering.

"A few weeks ago I never thought any medicine would end my suffering, but this Konjola has given me wonderful relief from all the pains that I suffered, in such a quick time, that I was surprised," said Mrs. Nina Fritch, well known Marion resident, living at 107 Fice Ave., this city, while talking with the Konjola Man a few days ago at the Stamp & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is personally explaining this remarkable compound to large crowds daily.

"Several years ago I noticed my first touch of rheumatism," said Mrs. Fritch "I had been doctoring and taking things for myself, but each time the pains became back they would be worse, until finally I could hardly stand the misery I was suffering. The pains would center in my back and felt like sharp knives gouged into my back. My hips and legs were effected, and the joints of my ankles and knees were swollen. At times I couldn't walk a step without holding on to something. I got so bad that I couldn't sleep at night and usually by morning I was so stiff and achy all over that I felt that I would never be able to get out of bed.

"I started taking Konjola and it proved to be the only medicine that helped me, so I kept on with it until now the rheumatism is vanished, and I am entirely relieved of my suffering, for the first time in years. My back never gives me any trouble and my hips and legs are limbering up so that I can get around fine. The swelling is gone from the ankles and knees and I am sleeping so good at night that I have twice the energy in the mornings and I am now able to do all my own housework. I can walk for a good distance and not feel the slightest pain.

"Besides ending my rheumatism, Konjola cleared up my stomach trouble and invigorated my whole system so that I am feeling better now than I have in years. I will always be glad to tell anyone who calls, how Konjola helped me."

The Konjola Man is at the Stamp & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Adv.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

I felt pretty bad yesterday. I had lost Red's little brother's wagon and my two dollars, and this morning when I had let Jubilee down in a snow-drift and had went down and made the fire and carried out the ashes and milked the dummed brutes and was feeding my face, and grandfather said, "Why so wumblecropt, Grand?" And then I busted out and told all about it and I was half crying, not because I felt so bad about losing my money as I did because I thought my father would lick me for climbing out of the window and skinning out. And mebby he would if I hadn't cried, but my mother reached over and patted me on the shoulder and called me her little business man, and said to never mind, and gave me another egg. Then my grandfather said that paper had a morning addition and he would get up and go over there with me in the morning, and my father didn't even jaw at me.

My aut looked like she wasn't surprized. I don't think she thinks I am so very brite, but what she thinks don't make any difference, because she isn't so very brite herself. I wish I knew what my grandfather is going to do to them.

The teacher asted us today which one of us is going to go out and get a Christmas tree for the room. She said she knew Thomas Aristides would because he has got a horse, but that I would want someone to help me; so Feeble was the first one to stand up, and she turned around and looked at me and crossed her eyes and stretched her mouth all the way acrost her face, and all the school hollered; so the teacher hollered at Feeble and she straightened out her face and looked around at the teacher as innocent as pie. Then all the fellas got up, and the teacher said we might go Saturday if we wished, but I told her we would rather go next Monday, and she laughed and said that would be all right, and she would declare a half holiday, so then we were all happy.

Younius asted Feeble if she thought she could help chop down a tree, and Feeble said she would go along and roll up her eyes and pretend like she was the little blind girl we was getting the tree for, if the man caught us, and that was such a good skeem that we didn't say anything. When school let out we all went out by the creek and found a skunk hole, but the ground was froze so hard around it that we couldn't dig it, though Jubilee almost wore his paws off trying. He was lucky.

ADDRESS STUDENTS

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effect.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists.—Adv.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

VERITZEN'S WISH

MY stately employer looked at Lillian with a facial expression in which irritation struggled with amusement. I knew that there was probably no other person in the world who dared to treat him so flippantly. But Lillian has no reverence for gods or men in her system, a truth which Philip Veritzen well knows. So he choked back the annoyance which he would have vented upon anyone else and opened his lips to tell us his errand as she had commanded, but she interrupted him ruthlessly.

"It won't do, old laughie-bird," she mocked. "You'll have to transfer the saddle to a lower mount. I'm not in the mood for airs today.

He knew when he was vanquished. I gave him credit for that as he threw back his head in a genuinely spontaneous burst of laughter.

"That's better," Lillian pronounced. "All right, we're ready. Shoot the works."

"I haven't so much ammunition with me,' Mr. Veritzen returned. "There is only one thing I wish to ask—you and Mrs. Graham."

"You mean Mrs. Graham and me," Lillian commented with a grin. "But I told you I was humble."

"You are—incorrigible," my employer said.

"You mean,—devilish'," Lillian countered with dancing eyes. But I promise not to interrupt again.'

Mr. Veritzen was oddly hesitant, however. In a man less poised his manner would have been distinct embarrassment, but he managed to carry his confusion off with banners.

"It is this," he said. "Miss Lincoln is extremely anxious to put herself under my tutelage for the stage. Of course I cannot stay out here indefinitely, and there are very cogent reasons why I cannot permit her to come to my offices in New York as Mary Harrison does. Besides, I do not intend to accept her as a dramatic protegee, but for a while I wish her to think that I am favoring her plan. Later, I am sure she will see that the scheme is utterly impossible—for her."

He paused as if to determine what to say next and across his bent head I shot a wildly inquiring glance at Lillian. What on earth did the great producer mean? He was noted for his absolute finality of negative dictum concerning the feminine aspirants for stage careers who employed every device possible for enlisting his interest. Once in a blue moon some fortunate and rarely gifted girl like Mary Harrison succeeded where hundreds failed. But never was he known to encourage a girl when he did not mean to make a star of her. Yet if I were not mistaken his attitude toward Eleanor Lincoln's wishes was a distinctly placating one. He did not wish to offend her, and on the other hand he did not mean to grant her request.

Lillian shook her head with a disclaiming gesture and, as Mr. Veritzen showed no disposition to go on, dropped a flippant comment into the conversational pool.

"In other words, you want to kid the girl along until she forgets her ambition," she said. "What's the matter? Isn't she there with the well-known dramatic fire? I should think she'd have any amount of it. And you couldn't find anything more stunning to look at in two continents."

"I am perfectly aware of that fact," Mr. Veritzen said stiffly. "And she has unmistakable talent. She should make a decided success upon the stage. But I cannot permit her to do it."

Two Teams Remain Unbeaten in Industrial Cage League

Commercial-Osgood Takes Fast Game From C. D. & M.; M. B. College, Huber Win

Gardner-Silk Mill Combination Replaces Erie Team in Loop; Business College Looks Plenty Good as Season Gets Under Way

TWO teams remain in the undefeated column of the Industrial basketball league after the second games played last night. The teams still boasting a 1.000 percentage are the Marion Business College and the Commercial-Osgood.

The Business College stays in the unbeaten class by virtue of a 32 to 11 victory over the American Malleable Casting team. The Commercial-Osgood bumped the C. D & M cagers, 13 to 10 for the right to stay where it is. The C. D & M was the only team to drop out of the undefeated column.

In the other game played last night the Huber team won, 16 to 12 from the newly formed Silk Mill-Gardner combination. This outfit has taken the place of the Erie team that dropped out of the league.

In winning from the C. D & M. the Commercial-Osgood team was forced to exert its full strength to lose out a three point lead. Penry and Yazel, right forward and right guard respectively, for the winners led scoring honors with five points each. Fetter and Applegett scored four each for the C. D & M. Wainfor, the Agosta flash, was held scoreless.

The American Malleable Casting team has had the misfortune to draw the tough Business College crew for its first game. The steel workers were idle last week. The Business College bumped the Erie team 30 to 5 a week ago and show promise of making the league race interesting before long.

Huber took a 500 standing last night by winning from the new combination. Burke's nine points for the winners and Merchant's eight for the losers were high scores for the game.

KENYON COLLEGE CAGERS COME HERE

The cage feature on tap for Marion fans tonight is the Kenyon College-Isaly Dairy game at the Star Auditorium. The game is scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock and will be preceded an hour earlier by a preliminary between the Agosta High School and the Harding High School reserves.

BUFFALO LINCOLNS WILL MEET EAGLE CAGERS HERE

ONE of the fastest road cage teams in the country will clash with the Marion Eagles on the Star auditorium floor Wednesday night. The Buffalo Lincolns, for years one of the representative teams of the east, have a strong line up this season and should give the Eagles a race for their money when they meet.

The Lincolns boast some of the strongest material in the east. Bob McNeil, forward, has a reputation that is hard to beat. Eddie Mangano, another forward, was formerly a star with the University of Buffalo, St. Bonaventure and Canisius College.

The Lincolns center is Chuck Miller, all New York high school selection a few years ago. Pete Radwan, reputed to be one of the best guards ever developed in Buffalo district and Red Garretson, former college star, will work the guards for the Lincolns. Leo Heitaman, utility guard, completes the Lincolns lineup.

In a preliminary to the game the Midway team will meet the Boyd outfit at 7:15 o'clock. The main game will start an hour later.

SPLIT LOOMS IN MINOR LEAGUES

Double A's May Make Own Treaties, Trades with Majors

New York, Dec. 13 — The three leagues of double A classification in baseball, the Pacific Coast, American Association and International League may withdraw from the present national agreement and promulgate their own treaties and trades with the Major leagues, and let the rest of the minor leagues go it alone. This was hinted at today as the National league went into session in its annual meeting.

The contemplated action of the biggest Minor league comes as a result of the demands made by the several minor leagues not operating under the modified draft for equality for all minor leagues. At present the three double A leagues, the Three Eye and the Western League are operating under the modified draft, and the rest of the field under the restricted field. The Majors have full drafting rights in every league except in those cited.

The Minor leagues outside of the modified draft agreement claim that they are discriminated against in some essentials in that they develop players and lose them, while the modified draft leagues lose only those players planted with them by the Majors.

THROWS ZBYSZKO

New York, Dec. 13 — Stanilaus ("Papa") Zbysko, veteran knight of the mat, has lost his first wrestling bout in this city. He was thrown here last night in what was alleged to be a grudge contest. Raicevich was thrown by Zbysko 15 years ago.

Last night Raicevich pinned the portly Polander to the mat after 34 minutes and 26 seconds of grappling.

Snyder, by his splendid defensive play, was placed on practically every All-Ohio for the two seasons he has played for Wooster.

His home is at Millersburg. He preped in the high school there.

IRISH WIN CAGE GAME FROM HAWKEYES

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 13—Notre Dame today boasts its fourth straight victory over the University of Iowa basketball five. The Irish won in a spirited contest here last night by the score of 23 to 20.

TO DEFEND TITLE

Philadelphia, Dec. 13—Otto Reisel of this city, World's champion at three-cushion billiards, defends his title here tonight in a match with Allen Hall. The match will be at 300 points, played in five blocks of sixty points each, and will end on Thursday.

TILDEN, HUNTER OUT OF DAVIS CUP TEAM

Famous American Racquet Wielders Will Play in Europe Next Summer

New York, Dec. 13—William T. Tilden, former national tennis champion and the big gun in America's defense of the Davis Cup for the last decade, and Francis T. Hunter, his doubles partner, will both be lost to the United States Davis Cup team in the preliminary campaigns next year for the recovery of the trophy, which France won last July. While their fellow countrymen are competing in the American zone, Tilden and Hunter will be playing in the French and British championships in Europe.

Tilden was quoted as saying in Boston last night that he and Hunter would go to France next May and not return here until August, which conflicts with the recommendation of the Davis Cup committee to challenge in the American zone. Tilden thinks the Americans should challenge in the European zone to become acclimated for the finals.

Hunter, at his home in New York, confirmed Tilden's announcement but said that he and "Big Bill" would be available for use in the finals in France, if they are held there.

Meanwhile, Davis Cup officials here reiterated their intention of going ahead with their own plans.

CELTICS DROP ONE

Fort Wayne, Ind., Dec. 13—Fort Wayne's professional basket team today boasted a victory over the World champion Celtics of New York. The Celts last night lost, 28 to 22.

Swapping Talk Centers Around Detroit Tigers And St. Louis Browns

nager George Moraty Places Heine Manush and Lu Blue on Block for Harry Rice and George Sisler; Plenty of Offers for Former Manager

BY LES CONKLIN

W YORK, Dec. 13—The annual winter gathering of the baseball swings into its second day this with the meeting of the al League as the chief event on gram. A board of directors was elected and the annual financial and other routine matters were taken up.

Although managers and magnates created a bullish trading market the various hotel lobbies, no swaps yet been engineered. While the committee was steering a safe sane course behind closed doors, managers steered the conversation from proposed trades with equal ease.

Talk Trades

Most of the trading talk centered on St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers. Manager George Moriarty of the Tigers put Heinie Manush and Lu Blue on the block for outfielder Harry Rice and George Sisler or a St. Louis pitcher. Cleveland offered to trade outfielder Homer Summa and Pitcher Hank Miller for Rice and Pitcher Sam Van Gilder, but the Browns declined.

It was considered a certainty that Sisler would be traded, possibly to Washington in a three-cornered deal with Detroit. The Indians, who need first baseman, were unable to get Sisler or Blue. The St. Louis club, having decided to let the Sizzler go, also will need a first sacker.

The Athletics and the White Sox also would like to obtain Sisler. However, the offer of the Sox to swap first baseman Clancy and a pitcher for the former St. Louis pilot met with little or no enthusiasm.

Indians Want Second Sacker

Cleveland is in the market for a second baseman, as Fred Spurgeon has broken his arm and may not be able to play next season.

The Yankees met with a chilly reception when they made offers for three pitchers—Uhle and Hudlin of Cleveland and Ruffing of the Red Sox. New York trading material consists of Paschal, Gazella, Morehart and possibly Shocker and another pitcher.

Little trading talk was broached by National League managers, most of whom are content to stand pat at present. The Cardinals will trade Flint Rhem if they can get one of three pitchers they are seeking.

The American League will meet tomorrow and the two leagues will hold a joint meeting on Thursday.

BOWLING RESULTS

Although standing in the cellar of the National League bowling race the Heffelfinger team is the first this year to turn in a 1,000 score on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. The team turned in a score of 1,001 last night in the league match with Wheeler's. The score was made in the second game of the match. Heffelfinger with 207 and Shrock with 216 were the only players to break 200. Norris got 196, Pierson 194, and G. Thomas 188. In spite of the big score in the second game the match went to Wheelers at 2748 and 2461. Wheeler's won the first and last games.

Lattimore's won the first two games but dropped the last one in the match with the American Legion. Lattimore's won the match 2560 to 2524.

W. Baldauf rolled 257 last week for high score for men. R. Porter and Mrs. Alson tied for high score for women at 177.

In a rough game that gave promise at times of being a free-for-all, the Harding Guard Detachment basketball team bumped the National Guard outfit, 29 to 14 in the Armory last night. The regulars had the game cinched after the first half. Their victory was due largely to effective guarding.

Tommy Loughran Wins Boxing Crown

SHARKEY MAY NOT FIGHT TOM HEENEY

New York, Dec. 13—Despite a denial from Promoter Tex Rickard, reports persisted along cauliflower row today that Jack Sharkey's injured hands will force him to withdraw from his scheduled bout with Tom Heeney here on Jan. 13. A second rumor was that Sharkey would be held over for a bout with Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey next spring without a qualifying bout, and that Jack Delaney would be substituted for the Boston heavyweight in the Heeney bout.

An injury to Sharky's hands caused the postponement of his bout with Heeney on Nov. 18, the original date.

Outpoints Jimmy Slattery In 15 Round Battle For Light-Heavyweight Title

Fight Settles Long Dispute Between National and New York Boxing Associations; Crowd Boos Decision of Judges; Jimmy's Spurt Comes Too Late

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion by one man's say-so, and Jimmy Slattery, perfectly good holder of the title by another's met last night at Madison Square Garden, just as though anybody cared, and the funny thing about it was that 11,000 people did.

They were all that were there when a referee and two judges said that Loughran had won at the end of fifteen rounds and their comments on the decision were highly edifying, not to say vociferous.

They liked what they saw but apparently they didn't like what they heard. Personally, the writer regarded the verdict as a bit finely drawn about the eyelids but, at that, Loughran won, if anybody did. Certainly, the way I saw it, Loughran didn't lose.

However, that is neither here nor there because when the boys once call them, however sour, they stay called and no defeated boxer ever cashed a nickel on the dear, old ovation the sympathetic souls tender him as he leaves the enclosure, so Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, is today the champion light-heavyweight of the world, including that part which is sponsored by the National Boxing Association. I am constrained to say that I have seen worse champions, past and present.

Loughran looked the part of a first class fighting man. It just happened that Thomas seemed to hit the taps first, although just lasting to the wire, as they say at Churchill Downs. This was another of the surprises of the occasion. The intelligentsia having decided in advance that James was just a quarter horse and couldn't possibly go a distance of ground.

But, in the stretch, it was Slattery who was coming and Loughran going and, just because they almost passed each other on the way, the button hole makers went yammering into the night.

It was Loughran's speed in the middle of the fight that got him the nod. Slattery was clearly ahead at the end of ten rounds, having weathered some heavy punching to the head in the early rounds and then coming along to take the play away from his man by left handing him out of position.

Spurt Comes Too Late

But possibly the old fear that Slattery was only a sprinter, after all, influenced his corner to rate him along after the tenth and that was all right, too, except that Loughran took advantage of the situation to berate the young man. This, in the last analysis, seems to be the most effective way to fight a fight.

With the decision all but blown, they sent Slattery out sprinting again in the fourteenth, at which point Loughran already had seven rounds in his favor. It was an eminently proper move but it came too late. For the last part of the fourteenth, which was even, James fairly dazzled his man with speed and throughout the fifteenth he was well in front. But this was a fifteen round fight. They don't pay off on a round and a half.

GENE ARRIVES

Tunney To Aid in Christmas Charity Event in Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 13—Gene Tunney, essaying the role of "Santa Claus," will arrive in Chicago today to contribute his bit to the success of the Christmas Charity drive. In accepting the invitation several days ago, the heavyweight champion replied that he owed Chicago "a debt of gratitude," which he was eager to pay.

This afternoon Tunney is scheduled to visit a War Veterans' hospital.

BABE RUTH WINS

Flashy Louisville Featherweight Gets Decision Over Eddie Shea

Chicago, Dec. 13—Babe Ruth, the flashy little featherweight from Louisville, Ky., was well up the ladder of fame today, as a result of his impressive battle against Eddie Shea, Chicago Italian, in the main event at White City last night.

RESUME SEARCH FOR DAYTON MINISTER

Resignation of Rev. David I. Good Sent to Presbytery by Mail

Dayton, Dec. 13—Search was resumed today for Rev. David I. Good, for seven years pastor of the Patterson Memorial Presbyterian Church, who has been missing for the last 10 days.

Several days ago church officials received a brief note, mailed from Effingham, Ill., written by Reverend Good and offering his resignation. The resignation was accepted yesterday.

It is believed that he is driving west or south and that his actions are due to a nervous breakdown. This theory is shared by Mrs. Good.

Reverend Good was once pastor of a United Brethren Church in Pittsburgh and later of a Methodist Church in Indianapolis. He came to Dayton from the latter city under circumstances similar to the present disappearance.

After several weeks he wrote to his wife to join him here. At that time he was working in a bank but later became a pastor again, serving the Presbyterian congregation.

Final arrangements for installation of Rev. John A. Carriker as pastor of Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church at the church next Thursday night, were made at the winter meeting of members of the Marion Presbytery, yesterday afternoon at First Presbyterian Church. Rev. James M. Fisher, pastor of Lee Street Presbyterian Church, will preside as moderator, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will charge the congregation, and Rev. E. J. Wykle of Bucyrus will charge the pastor. Rev. Frederick Cromer of Upper Sandusky will give the sermon.

Rotarians Blush Furiously and Wives Gasp as Pasts of Club Members Are Paraded Before Guests at Party

Indignation Meeting of Mortified Men Held at Close of Banquet

THE past life of more than 50 Marion Rotarians is an open book to Rotary Anns today following one of the biggest exposes in the history of local civic clubs. The expose threw more than 200 persons, Rotarians, their wives and families, into turmoil, and confusion last night just before the close of the annual Rotary Christmas party held at White Oaks.

That any number of local Rotarians once hid their identity behind subterfuges of one sort or another was conclusively proved to club members and their wives by the expose, which was not only one of wholesale proportions but was absolutely conclusive. The past was dragged before the bulging eyes of wives and members alike with mirror like accuracy. Skeletons, that now prosperous and prominent Marion business men had hoped were long buried, were dragged from the family closets and paraded before the assembled club men and their families.

Like Thunder Bolts

Unknown to all but a few the expose came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. At a short indignation meeting following the exposed Rotarians were of the unanimous opinion that Rotary Anns were more or less responsible for dragging to light past history that had long been buried under an accumulation of years.

In spite of the fact that family secrets had been divulged to the public at large, oldtime Anns were not expected to take any drastic action against their husbands.

The expose was one of the chief events on the program of the Rotary Christmas party and was conducted by Jesse H. Mason, superintendent of Marion public schools and president of Rotary, and Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the meeting last night. With the assistance of W. E. Orcutt, principal of Central Junior High School, George Stafford, a reflector projecting machine, and a number of photographs and tintypes, the life history of Rotarians from swaddling clothes to baldheadness was paraded before the assembly. As matter of ceremonies and chief announcer, Superintendent Mason broadcast a short verse suitable to describe the subject on the screen. The verses were written by Mrs. George Turner.

With a dinner served in the dining room the party got under way at 7 o'clock. Music was furnished by a girls' orchestra from Harding High School. Following the dinner Santa Claus, impersonated by Addison Bain, entered the diningroom with present for women and children.

As an expression of appreciation for the work of Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer and Mrs. May E. Sawyer in aiding with arrangements for the party, the Rotary Club presented them roses.

REPUBLICANS READY TO ORGANIZE SENATE

Insurgents Well Satisfied with Share Allotted in Peace Agreement

Washington, Dec. 13—The Republicans prepared today to make their titular control of the seventieth congress a matter of official record by formally organizing the senate.

With peace restored between the insurgent camp and regular organization, the senate Republicans were certain to sweep their slate of candidates into office for another two years while retaining a majority control of all committees.

The generous distribution of high committee assignments to insurgents and a pledge by administration leaders to secure votes for them on certain legislation ended all talk of rebellion. The insurgents seemed pretty well satisfied for the first time in many years. Of the seven Republicans in their ranks, five will act as chairman of committees. Of these, Senator Borah, of Idaho, was renamed to the foreign relations committee, and Senator Norris of Nebraska, to the judiciary. Three of the group were given new chairmanships, these were Howell of Nebraska, on claims, Nye, of North Dakota, on public lands, and Frazier, of North Dakota, on Indian affairs.

ASK HABEAS CORPUS RULING FOR MRS. WEST

Believing She Has Been Sentenced to Chair, Alleged Murderess in Torture

Painesville, Dec. 13—Tortured by the belief that she has already been sentenced to death in the electric chair, Velma West, the so-called "split mind" murderess of her wealthy husband, Edward West, trembled in her cell here today on the verge of a nervous collapse.

The pretty 21-year-old confessed slayer, through her attorneys, will stage her second attempt to be released on bond in Lake County Common Pleas Court today when a habeas corpus action will be heard.

Mrs. West, who admits beating her husband to death with a small hammer, lost her first battle for freedom on bond yesterday when she was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Marvin Helter, who held her to the grand jury on a charge of first degree murder.

It is expected the trial date will be early in February.

Why the attractive blond widow has been called a woman with a "split mind" was demonstrated at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing. Up to the time Judge Helter announced his decision, Mrs. West was as calm as any one in the courtroom.

Industrial Stocks at Highest Prices of Week

Rails and Oils Stand Out as Only Group Held Back on Board

Markets at a Glance

Railroad stocks, firm; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, fairly steady; foreign bonds, steady; call money 4 per cent; grain, steady; copper, strong; oil, irregular, cotton, strong; rubber, steady, sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange firm.

New York, Dec. 13—Industrial stocks prices today rose to the highest levels of the week in response to persistent buying demand, embracing most of the important groups of speculative shares. Motor, steel and specialties stocks dominated the market, but good buying was also in evidence in the equipments, sugars, tobaccos, mercantile shares, electrical manufacturing and copper stocks Rails and oils held back, but the trend of prices was slightly higher, and no great amount of selling pressure was in evidence.

There were few, if any, important changes in the year-end industrial and financial conditions and the stock market supplied its own incentive for the spectacular advances in prices of the specialties During manipulative moves by the pools and professionals doubtless accounted for the severe jolting of the price levels of some of the new-comers to the active list, since current prices bear very little relation to the earning capacities of the companies behind them. The shorts have had no success in depressing any of these high-fliers, some of which had made and retained price gains of 50 to 70 points.

Demand Increasing

Steel manufacturers reported a slight increase in demand for a variety of products and the price bases was unchanged Latest efforts to settle the coal strike appear to be fruitless, and reports of an increase in unemployment, coupled with wage reductions, were received. Wall Street is keeping close tabs on congress, displaying special interest in proposed legislation on tax reduction, agricultural relief, military equipment and merchant shipping

Strong leadership in the forward movement was again extended by United States Steel common, which sold at 146 1-2. Market rumors insistently point to the prospect of a further split-up of the stock, capitalizing another portion of the $500,000,000 surplus carried on the balance sheet of the corporation. Studebaker led the low-priced motors, with a 2 1-2 point advance to above 61, accompanied by reports that this company would introduce a new 8-cylinder car at the motor show

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 13—Foreign markets were easier and wheat prices on the local exchange reacted slightly yesterday. Trade was again light and featureless throughout the session. Locals exerted considerable pressure on the distant futures and the December ruled the strongest. Net declines in wheat at the close were 5¾@1c, with December at $1.28⅜ and May, $1.33-⅛.

Liverpool was due higher and opened a little better, but prices slid off in a dull trade and at the close wheat was ¾@⅞d lower This caused opening prices on the local exchange to show declines of ½@⅝c. Buenos Aires ruled ½c lower all day, Winnipeg was easier, opening ¼@½c down and closing ⅝@⅝c lower.

Wheat showed little feature in the light trade Locals were responsible for most of the pressure, and though no definite support was apparent, there was enough scattered buying to keep the market from breaking. Commission houses sold some wheat on the disappointing tables.

Corn Opens Lower

Corn was lower at the outset on scattered local and commission house selling. Later heavy pressure was apparent, due to larger receipts in the Southwest and the market developed on all the setbacks, however, and the market recovered some of its early losses. Trade ruled light most of the session.

Visible stocks increased 147,000 bu, and stocks on passage increased 2,096,000 bu. There was little information on either export business or demand. Cash trade, however, continued good, with the basis steady and prices unchanged to 1c lower.

Local sales totaled 137,000 bu, and country offerings continued light with 10,000 bu booked to arrive. Sales of 50,000 bu, to go to shore were also made. Deliveries on December contracts, 130,000 bu.

Good Clearance for Oats

Oats were a shade easier at the start, but there was a good general demand and prices firmer to close higher. Commission house buying, while not as noticeable as it has been, was evident Visible stocks decreased 923,000 bu, and an excellent demand prevailed for choice quality cash oats. Deliveries, 170,000 bu

The general demand for rye was slow and prices moved off with wheat futures. Visible stocks decreased 403,000 bu Deliveries were 10,000 bu, and sales to go to store, 5,000 bu., but cash demand was generally easier.

Marion Headquarters For Santa Claus Kiddies Find

Headquarters for Santa Claus are right in Marion. Work of making toys and goodies to be distributed to the boys and girls this Christmas was completed on schedule time this year and good old St. Nick and his trusty reindeer bade Dame Nicholas and the little reindeer adieu and headed straight for Ohio, landing in Columbus and Santa took the first car to Marion on the C., D. & M. line. From now on until after Christmas Eve he will be entertained at Bartlett's Drug Store, Long's Shoe Store, Smart & Waddell's Shoe Store, Nelson Bros. Jewelry Store, Turner's Hardware Store, Rexall Drug Store, United Electric Co., Singer Sewing Machine Co., Klean Kut Market, Bodley-Osman Electric Co., Mayfair Safes & Service, Grand Theater and J. F. Just Mfg. Co., where he will greet the boys and girls of Marion every day and receive his mail.

Hundreds Greet Santa

If you don't believe this ask any one of the hundreds of children and adults who were on hand to receive him when he stepped off the interurban Saturday afternoon. The wildest kind of a Fourth of July celebration was like a Blue-law Sunday compared to the cheers which went up when the jolly old fellow stepped off the car. Hats went into the air, never to be found again, mothers were separated from their children for hours and the three policemen, Officers Chapman, Wren and Powell had their hands full keeping the children right side up and inside their own coats.

Poor Old Santa got somewhat the worst of the bargain for in less time than it would take one of the dolls in his pack to wink her eye or a jumping jack to bounce out of his box one of the sleeves of his bright red jacket was torn out and his belt was trailing on the ground. This is all in a day's work with him and he was all fixed up and in the receiving line in much shorter time than it took to restore two or three of the youngsters to their mothers or find the right kind of a cap for a couple which had been lost in the shuffle. So demonstrative and cordial was his reception that the pack filled with the gifts designed as a surprise for his little friends was thrown open and every one took his own chance at getting something instead of it being distributed.

Reads Mail Aloud

Santa Claus was by all means the center of attraction for the remainder of the afternoon and he had a flattering following from store to store and to the Grand Theater where he read aloud his mail which he found waiting for him here.

The good old fellow will be found in the vicinity of the stores of his hosts every afternoon this week and next and will always have a willing ear to hear from every little boy and girl in Marion just exactly what they would like him to bring them Christmas Eve. He also will collect his mail daily at each of these stores where letters may be addressed to him at any and all times, in the event any of his little friends miss him or think he might forget something.

Letters are being received daily in no small numbers and these with others which will be received during the remainder of the week will be read by Santa Claus next Saturday afternoon when he again meets his friends at the theater.

BOARD OF ELECTIONS TO CLOSE OFFICES

Work of Compiling Records and Closing Accounts Nearly Completed

Work of compiling records and closing up accounts in connection with the election held here on Nov. 8 is nearing completion and the county board of elections office will probably be closed within the next few days, A. W. Kettle, clerk of the board, stated today. The office has been open since several weeks prior to the election with Mrs. Ralph White, assistant clerk, in charge.

Work at the office will probably be resumed in March, when preparations are to be started for the statewide presidential preference primary, to be held in April. At this primary voters of Ohio will designate their choice of presidential nominees preliminary to the national Republican and Democratic conventions, scheduled for June.

It is expected that the local board of elections office will be kept open the greater part of next year, due to the large amount of work to be handled in connection with the 1928 program, which includes balloting on national, state and county officials.

General registration is also scheduled in the city of Marion, where all voters must register once every four years prior to presidential election. More than 14,000 are now registered in the city, a report recently completed disclosed.

PASTORS' BANQUET

Covers Arranged for 43 at Reformed Church

Covers were arranged for 43 at the annual banquet of members of the Marion County Ministerial Association and their wives last night at First Reformed Church. John Marshman, head of the department of oratory, Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, was the principal speaker of the evening, discussing in his talk the progress made by religious bodies, advance in community welfare as well as progress internationally.

After a fellowship hour dinner was served and the program opened with a welcome address by Rev. George E. Groves, president of the organization, Rev. Earl L. Holliday presiding as toastmaster. Rev. Howard L. Olewiler responded in behalf of the new ministers, for whom the dinner had been planned.

Rev. and Mrs. Wiley S. Young led the singing and Reverend Young entertained with a clever group of impersonsations of Harry Lauder. Rev. V. P. Powell of Green Camp, led the prayer.

The program was arranged by Rev. W. R. Shively, Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller and Don Burson. At the regular meeting of the association at City Library next Monday Reverend Young will talk on "Music and the Church Program."

FINE SUSPENDED

A fine of $15 and costs was assessed against Jay Pine, 30, Thompson-st, when he pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge before Judge William R. Martin in municipal court this morning. The fine was suspended pending his good behvior. Pine was arrested by Hocking Valley detectives last night when it is said by police, he was caught in the act of stealing coal from a Hocking Valley freight train.

Warm Winds Blow as First Christmas Trees Arrive

Handicapped by the warm spring-like weather, rows of Christmas trees, the first of the season, arranged in front of the Schrader and the J. D. Wise & Son grocery stores on E. Center-st. struggled to impart the Christmas spirit today.

The trees which are the first to be put on display by local dealers, are Michigan pine and are retailing at $1 to $1.50. With the placing of trees on display it is expected other dealers will follow with similar exhibits.

A small amount of holly has also made its appearance on the Marion markets. The Baker produce store in the United Market has both the loose holly and holly wreaths on display. The former is selling at 45 cents a pound and the wreaths are selling at 35 cents each.

"The best brakes ever developed for a motor car"—

are on the Reo Flying Cloud—Try them out

"Every automobile manufacturer and every automobile engineer . . . who has subjected Lockheed Internal Hydraulic Four-Wheel Brakes to the most severe competitive tests, acclaims them the best brakes ever developed for a motor car."
THE HYDRAULIC BRAKE CO.
Automobile Topics, October 1, 1927.

The Reo Flying Cloud was the first car to have these brakes.

It appeared in January, 1927. We said then that we thought these were the best brakes any car, regardless of price, ever had.

Now comes the Hydraulic Brake Company, which makes other types of brakes than the Internal Hydraulic, but they know, as engineers know, which are the better.

They make tens of thousands more sets of external hydraulic brakes than they do of these internal hydraulics, yet they endorse the latter as the "best."

More costly? Yes. But Reo policy is to give the best regardless of cost.

But try them yourself

The best proof of this claim to the "world's best brakes" is a test that you make for yourself. So we hope you will ask for a demonstration. We want you to take a Flying Cloud out on slippery, greasy roads or streets. We want you to learn for yourself how swiftly, yet gently, they halt you in a straight line when you must STOP.

Be sure to try them out.
